

Since 1861 BSA have built a worldwide reputation for manufacturing guns to the most exacting standards.

In addition to the many checks undertaken during production, each gun is subjected to detailed and rigorous final inspection to ensure that it is perfect when it leaves our factory. This includes a 27 point visual inspection, a stringent functional examination, and a thorough range test to ensure accuracy, grouping and muzzle velocity. Only when it has passed all stages of this quality control regime is it deemed fit to bear the famous BSA Piled Arms logo.
